What's Elvis got to do with it?

A story of experience, strength, and hope

Step Four: Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

Early in my recovery I put off doing Step Four as long as possible, not taking my inventory until I was about three years sober. I remember old timers reminding me that a garbage can will hold only so much trash, and then it starts spilling over making everybody around it miserable.

The old timers told me to start writing, and when I argued, they assured me that it didn't matter how well I could write. "Step Four isn't a novel," they told me, and added that there's no one special way to write it as long as it gets done.

The old timers said the Big Book way of doing an inventory didn't really apply to me because I wasn't married, and I didn't have a house. For what it's worth, they told me to draw a line down the middle of a page. On one side, write: "Elvis is a liar." On the opposite side, write: "Elvis is a pretty nice guy."

I won't go into a lengthy discussion of what all that meant, only to say that's exactly what happened to me, and eventually it worked. If what happened to me doesn't make sense to you, don't take it personally. This is how I worked Step Four, and I don't wish to argue with gurus or disagree with any other ways of working this step.

I also don't like to grapple with sentimental interpretations of words. Bill Wilson said that we all can work the steps in the way we interpret them. I believe that doing the steps whatever way works is much better than doing nothing. Like they say, a farm won't generally go to ruin just because the crops aren't planted in a perfectly straight row.

The way I did Step Four may not be typical, but I did have one common denominator

Tradition Four

What does your "conscience" say?

"Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or AA as a whole."

As a member of this wonderful program of Alcoholics Anonymous for almost forty years, I am still amazed and in awe at how this program is structured and how by using the twelve steps, twelve traditions, and the principles we have a program that has helped millions of individuals become sober and stay sober and change their lives and the lives of their families forever. The twelve traditions were first published in 1946.

As an individual what does Tradition Four mean to me? It means that all groups have a right to conduct their meetings as decided by group conscience decision (not individual decision), and that as long as decisions made by our group conscience do not affect other neighboring groups or AA as a whole in a negative way, we can choose how our group will function.

This means it is important to me as an individual to attend my group conscience meeting so that I have a voice in decisions made by the group.

How does this tradition affect us at a group level?

Each individual group decides how to conduct its meetings by group conscience decision. It can have one-hour meetings or longer. It can have special meetings, (e.g., men's meetings, women's meetings, step meetings, Big Book meetings, speaker meetings.)

Each group may decide which readings to include in its meetings, (e.g., "How It Works," "The Promises," "A Vision for You," "More about Alcoholism," or Daily Reflections.)

Each group decides how to disperse its funds. There are suggested guidelines, but each group can make decisions based on group with many, if not most, other AAs. It's called fear. This, the old timers said, was the motivator of my actions, adding that all human actions are motivated at their deepest level by either love or fear. There are no other choices.

Step Four is an attempt to identify the flaws in my character. Among my major character defects, I found that I was an extremist: I either did everything or I did nothing.

I was also judgmental. Most of the pain I was experiencing was a direct result of a prior judgment I had made about a situation or a thing. My sponsor suggested we examine these things very closely. I found if I removed the judgment, the pain was removed.

Lust is another of my defects. Page 69 of Alcoholics Anonymous says, "AA does not wish to be the arbiter of anyone's sex conduct." Suffice it to say that the word lust comes from the Latin word, "luxuria," which means self-indulgent desire. I think of it as a "luxury," meaning something I neither need nor can afford.

My fourth step showed me that in addition to character defects, I also had some assets. The old timers told me that I was not a bad person trying to get good, but that I was a sick person trying to get well. I am an alcoholic because my body does not metabolize alcohol normally. My alcoholism has nothing to do with my external circumstances.

Many years after my first fourth step, I focused on the phrase from the Big Book, "Selfishness and self-centeredness; that we think is the root of our troubles, driven by a hundred forms of fear, self-delusion, self-seeking, and self-pity we step on the toes of others and they retaliate."

What a remarkable statement! I have come to believe that it doesn't matter what happened to any alcoholic; alcoholism is not caused by external events. It doesn't matter if one is diagnosed as bipolar, is the victim of childhood abuse, or trauma; we have to drop the word blame from our vocabulary.

The old timers said my alcoholism was a physical, mental, and spiritual disorder, a three-fold disease. I believe the greatest result of my fourth step was an awakening of the God in my life and the lifting of an amazing mental weight.

April by the Books

STEP FOUR

Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

Perhaps there is a better way—we think so. For we are now on a different basis; the basis of trusting and relying upon God. We trust infinite God rather than our finite selves. We are in the world to play the role He assigns. Just to the extent that we do as we think He would have us, and humbly rely on Him, does He enable us to match calamity with serenity.

We reviewed our own conduct over the years past. Where had we been selfish, dishonest, or inconsiderate? Whom had we hurt? Did we unjustifiably arouse jealousy, suspicion or bitterness? Where were we at fault, what should we have done instead? We got this all down on paper and looked at it.

If we have been thorough about our personal inventory, we have written down a lot. We have listed and analyzed our resentments. We have begun to comprehend their futility and their fatality. We have commenced to see their terrible destructiveness. We have begun to learn tolerance, patience and good will toward all men, even our enemies, for we look on them as sick people. We have listed the people we have hurt by our conduct, and are willing to straighten out the past if we can.

In this book you read again and again that faith did for us what we could not do for ourselves. We hope you are convinced now that God can remove whatever self-will has blocked you off from Him. If you have already made a decision, and an inventory of your grosser handicaps, you have made a good beginning. That being so you have swallowed and digested some big chunks of truth about yourself.

TRADITION FOUR

"Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or AA as a whole."

With respect to its own affairs, each AA group should be responsible to no other authority than its own conscience. But when its plans concern the welfare of neighboring groups also, those groups ought to be consulted. And no group, regional committee, or individual should ever take any action that might greatly affect AA as a whole without conferring with the trustees of The Alcoholic Foundation. On such issues our common welfare is paramount.

The first sentence of Tradition Four guarantees each AA group local autonomy. With respect to its own affairs, the group may make any decisions, adopt any attitudes that it likes. No over-all or intergroup authority should challenge this primary privilege. We feel this ought to be so, even though the group might sometimes act with complete indifference to our tradition . . .

An AA group need not be coerced by any human government over and above its own members. Their own experience, plus AA opinion in surrounding groups, plus God's prompting in their group conscience would be sufficient. Much travail has already taught us this. Hence we may confidently say to each group, "You should be responsible to no other authority than your own conscience."

. . . Therefore, we AAs have universally adopted the principle of consultation. This means that if a single AA group wishes to take any action which might affect surrounding groups, it consults them. Or, if there be one, it confers with the intergroup committee for the area. Likewise, if a group or regional committee wishes to take any action that might affect AA as a whole, it consults the trustees of The Alcoholic Foundation, who are, in effect, our over-all General Service Committee . . .

This idea is clearly summarized in the last sentence of Tradition Four, which observes, "On such issues our common welfare is paramount."

Bill W, The AA Grapevine, March 1948

CONCEPT FOUR

Throughout our Conference structure, we ought to maintain at all responsible levels a traditional "Right of Participation" taking care that each classification or group of our world servants shall be allowed a voting representation in reasonable proportion to the responsibility that each must discharge.

The principle of "Participation" has been carefully built into our Conference structure. The Conference Charter specifically provides that the Trustees, the Director of our service corporations, (AA World Services, Inc. and the Grapevine, Inc.) together with their respective executive staffs, shall be voting members of the General Service Conference itself.

Exactly the same concept is borne in mind when our General Service Board elects the Directors of its wholly-owned active service corporations, AA World Services, Inc. and The AA Grapevine, Inc. If it wished, the General Service Board could elect none but its own Trustees to these corporate directorships. But a powerful tradition has grown up to the effect that this never ought to be done.

The "Right of Participation" is therefore a corrective of ultimate authority because it mitigates its harshness or misuse. It also encourages us who serve AA to accept the necessary disciplines that our several tasks require. We can do this when we are sure that we belong, when the fact of our "participation" assures us that we are truly the "trusted servants" described in AA's Tradition Two.

AA works because we all work together!

This month, your Group GSR will be bringing to you the agenda items for the 2011 General Service Conference to hear what you have to say and to get your vote.

These are possible changes that could happen in AA. It is up to you as a Group to voice your opinion so that the GSR can bring your vote back to the District. As a member of AA, you have the final say on changes being made. Your GSR will report your group's decisions back to me, and I will take your votes to the April North Florida Area Conference and tell our delegate how you feel about the changes.

If your Group does not have a GSR, take a group conscience, elect a GSR, and e-mail the name and contact information to district17@aaocalamarion.org before April 7, 2011.

All parts of our Fellowship—group meetings, committees, offices, conferences, and group service positions—have one joint purpose: to help that one newcomer who has a drinking problem.

But for AA to run itself, we have to have a system for finding out how AA as a whole feels about what's happening in the fellowship, and how it wants to operate.

We need constant, honest communications from one part of AA to every other, furnishing a wide cross section of AA experience. The General Service Conference makes that possible.

You and I may not need a General Service Conference today to ensure our own recovery, but what about the millions of sick alcoholics still stumbling out there in the dark? When they come trying to find us, we want each of them to get the same loving help we all had.

The Conference—and the whole General Service organization—has that responsibility to keep AA alive and well for those yet to come.

For Group Consideration 2011 GSO Agenda Items

Your group's input is vital. Ask your GSR about these and more upcoming votes. Make sure your voice is heard.

- Alternative suggestions on revising the pamphlet "Self Support: Where Money and Spirituality Mix."
- Changes to Guidelines on Finance and the AA Group Treasurer pamphlets.
- Changes to "Understanding Anonymity" to add digital media.
- Consider putting the AA Preamble in the front section of the Big Book.
- Consider conducting an AA membership survey in 2011.
- Consider producing new TV PSAs.
- Consider permitting the AA Grapevine to utilize digital modes.
- Consider permitting the AA Grapevine to accept contributions limited to the General Service contribution policy.

These issues should be discussed by your group prior to April 10 so your GSR can represent your opinions at the North Florida Area Assembly.

How Groups and Individuals Support the Work of AA

Group contributions fund the work of Intergroup 17 and other areas of AA General Services. Many groups choose to follow the 50-30-10-10 plan of support after they meet their own financial needs:

- 50 percent to Intergroup 17
- 30 percent to AA General Service Office
- 10 percent to North Florida Area Conference
- 10 percent to District 17

conscience discussion and agreement as to how it wishes to use monies donated by the group members.

How do local groups make decisions that affect other groups?

Here is an example. My home group, Happy, Joyous and Free wanted to expand its 5:30 pm meeting to include Saturdays and Sundays, but on Sundays, there was a possible conflict.

Another local group holds 8:00 pm meetings, so our group consulted with the other group to ensure they had no concerns about the addition of the 5:30 pm Sunday meeting to our schedule. As they didn't, Happy, Joyous and Free expanded its 5:30 pm meeting to seven nights a week.

More guidance from our literature

Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions, beginning on page 189, provides an example of how group decisions could affect AA as a whole. The book, Alcoholics Anonymous Comes of Age, page 103, lends even more insight.

At the beginning of Alcoholics Anonymous, Bill W thought it would be best if all groups were managed by the New York Office. But communication from group members to New York said, "We like what you are doing. Sometimes your suggestions and advice are good. But whether to take you or leave you alone is going to be our decision. We are going to run our own show. We are not going to have a personal government in New York or anywhere else. Services yes. But government, no."

Hence, AA's Tradition of group autonomy. It did not take long to formulate that one. They told us just what they wanted and that included the right to be wrong.

All of us who are members and groups of Alcoholics Anonymous need to remember that we represent the face of Alcoholics Anonymous to the public and any audiences we deal with. We need to always remember that our common welfare comes first and individual recovery depends on AA unity.
