A paragraph for a lifetime A story of experience, strength, and hope

"Step Seven: Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings."

When I was first coming around, I remember seeing the Twelve Steps on the wall and thinking I would skip Step Seven. It was one of those God steps with a prayer in it, and I figured there was probably a way around it for us nonbelievers. My sponsor thought otherwise.

I remember as we were working through the "first five proposals," and often in between, he would remind me that selfishness and self-centeredness were at the root of my problem. He would also remind me, again often and as I see now very truthfully, that we alcoholics must be rid of self or it kills us.

That is primarily why I worked a fifth step in the first place: to see if there was any of this "selfishness." In so doing, I found there was (hmmmm?). Also in so doing, he and I came up with this list of some of my grosser handicaps, shortcomings.

I won't go into them here as I am only allowed to write so many words, but let's just say, "Yeah, I had a few." There were some things I might be willing to let go of; some of the worst of the worst if you will, and I could see how if I clung to them, they could actually cause me to retreat into drinking again. I never knew or understood the saying that alcohol was but a symptom until I actually started listing the things about me that were the causes and conditions.

At this point, I was beginning to rely on a God of my understanding, which, not surprisingly, the previous steps had allowed me to develop, and my sponsor had me reciting the seventh-step prayer every day. Today

Tradition Seven

Truly amazing for a bunch of drunks.

"Every AA group ought to be fully self supporting declining outside contributions."

To appreciate Tradition Seven, we have to travel back to the late 1930s and early 1940s. The AA fellowship had no resources and many, if not most, of the members were low-bottom, very broke alcoholics.

Even as the members began to prosper, the fellowship stayed broke. To raise vast sums of money to save the world, the members came up with all sorts of schemes, which, had they come to fruition, would surely have spelled doom for the fellowship of Alcoholics Anonymous.

In the beginning, grateful benefactors endowed club-houses, and then tried to direct them. One area was given an entire hospital, and the donor's son became the first patient and subsequently its manager.

One AA group was given $5000 — a very large sum at the time — and were told to use it as they wished, which caused a tremendous amount of dissension. Soon, because of all the resulting strife and discord, most groups decided not to let any monies to accumulate, even for prudent reserves.

Eventually, the members of the fellowship acknowledge that groups and AA would require at least some modest funds to function effectively. Groups had to pay rent for meeting places, and intergroup and central offices had to lease space and pay for telephone service and sometimes secretarial expenses.

The undeniable fact was that they needed money, prudently managed, to make sure they would be there for the next alcoholic who showed up at the doorstep.

In response, many grateful members made large bequests to AA. At one time as much as $500,000 was available to the fellowship from members leaving money to

My father's garden

One of the things I remember best about my father was that he spent most of his free time making good use of his green thumb. He had a beautiful garden filled with almost any kind of vegetable you can think of — corn, tomatoes, watermelon, green beans, carrots, you name it.

He grew many beautiful flowers, too. He had them planted all around our home in upstate New York.

He even had his own greenhouse where he'd begin the plants for his garden early in the spring. He loved his garden and was very proud of it.

When friends and family came to our house, my Dad would always give the best of what he'd grown away. People always left our home with some kind of vegetable or some beautiful flowers.

I thought my Dad was a little nuts for giving away what he'd worked so hard to cultivate. Still, he always did it with a smile. I never understood that! It made no sense to me until now, many years after his death.

Today, I find myself living in the same sort of spirit as my Dad did, except mine is a different kind of garden. It may be small and still just starting to grow, but AA and God have unstuck me from the dark and shed new light on my past. In fact, my darkest secrets seem to make for my best fertilizer.

I also know that what I plant now will become part of my past tomorrow. I want that to be something that others will appreciate having too.

I've been told to give this thing of ours away, or I will lose it. It's a great lesson I've finally learned from AA — and from my father.

Tradition Seven Truly Amazing for a Bunch of Drunks

AA in their wills. The trustees of AA fought back and forth over these and many other money issues. In its wisdom, the leadership made a decision to reject all of those monies even though the fellowship could certainly have used them. They decided, instead, that AA should remain poor.

When the basket is passed at a meeting, it is passed hand-to-hand in the very spiritual essence of Tradition Seven. Think of what the one or two dollars that are dropped into baskets all over the world are doing — supplying coffee, paying rents, subsidizing literature and then filtering up to support the work of intergroups and central offices, districts, areas, and the General Service Office.

Miraculously, a fellowship composed of some of the most irresponsible types in society thrives because of their responsible behavior. Truly amazing for a bunch of drunks.

STEP SEVEN

"Humbly asked him to remove our shortcomings."

What is humility? What can it mean to us? The avenue to true freedom of the human spirit. Necessary aid to survival. Value of ego-puncturing. Failure and misery transformed by humility. Strength from weakness. Pain is the admission price to new life. Self-centered fear chief activator of defects. Step Seven is change in attitude which permits us to move out of ourselves toward God.

Twelve Steps & Twelve Traditions, page 7

The Seventh Step is where we make the change in our attitude, which permits us, with humility as our guide, to move out from ourselves toward others and toward God. The whole emphasis of Step Seven is on humility.

It is really saying to us that we now ought to be willing to try humility in seeking the removal of our other shortcomings just as we did when we admitted that we were powerless over alcohol, and came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.

If that degree of humility could enable us to find the grace by which such a deadly obsession could be banished, then there must be hope of the same result respecting any other problem we could possibly have.

TRADITION SEVEN

"Every AA group ought to be fully self-supporting, declining outside contributions."

1. Honestly, now, do I do all I can to help AA (my group, my central office, my GSO) remain self-supporting? Could I put a little more into the basket on behalf of the new guy who can't afford it yet? How generous was I when tanked in a barroom?

2. Should the Grapevine sell advertising space to book publishers and drug companies, so it could make a big profit and become a bigger magazine, in full color, at a cheaper price per copy?

3. If GSO runs short of funds some year, wouldn't it be okay to let the government subsidize AA groups in hospitals and prisons?

4. Is it more important to get a big AA collection from a few people, or a smaller collection in which more members participate?

5. Is a group treasurer's report unimportant AA business? How does the treasurer feel about it?

6. How important in my recovery is the feeling of self-respect rather than the feeling of being always under obligation for charity received?

"Traditions Checklist," The AA Grapevine

Probably no AA Tradition had the labor pains this one did. In early times, we were all broke. When you add to this the habitual supposition that people ought to give money to alcoholics trying to stay sober, it can be understood why we thought we deserved a pile of folding money. What great things AA would be able to do with it! But oddly enough, people who had money thought otherwise. They figured that it was high times we now-sober-paid our own way. So our Fellowship stayed poor because it had to.

CONCEPT SEVEN

The Conference recognizes that the Charter and the Bylaws of the General Service Board are legal instruments: that the Trustees are thereby fully empowered to manage and conduct all of the world service affairs of Alcoholics Anonymous. It is further understood that the conference Charter itself is not a legal document; that it relies instead upon the force of tradition and the power of the AA purse for its final effectiveness.

This concept may appear to be contradictory; it may look like the collection of an irresistible force with an immovable object. On the one hand we see a Board of Trustees which is invested with complete legal power over AA's funds and services, while on the other hand we find that AA's General Service Conference is clothed with such great traditional influence and financial power that, if necessary, it could overcome the legal rights of the Board of Trustees. It can therefore give the Trustees directive and secure compliance with them—practically speaking.

District 17 Corner

Bridging the gap between treatment and AA through temporary contact programs.

Interested in a service position that offers the opportunity to work with new or returning members to the fellowship?

You might consider volunteering to serve as District 17 service coordinator or a committee volunteer for the Bridging the Gap program, which assists individuals in making the transition from treatment and/or incarceration into the AA community.

Here's some information about one important aspect of Bridging the Gap between a treatment program and AA: the Temporary Contact Program.

One of the more "slippery" places in the journey to sobriety is between the door of the facility and the nearest AA group or meeting. Some say that, even though they had heard of AA in treatment, they were too fearful to go.

AA Experience suggests that attending meetings regularly is critical. In order to bridge the gap, AA members have volunteered to be temporary contacts and introduce newcomers to Alcoholics Anonymous.

The video "Hope: Alcoholics Anonymous," shown to patients in treatment, emphasizes the importance of having a temporary contact as the essential link between treatment and recovery.

It is suggested that the temporary contact take the newcomer to a variety of AA meetings; introduce him or her to other AAs; ensure that he or she has the phone numbers of several AA members, and share the experience of sponsorship and a home group.

Temporary Contact Guidelines

- Keep in mind that this is basic Twelfth Step work.
- Experience suggests that it is best to be accompanied by another AA member when meeting our newcomer. One of the two temporary contacts should have at least a year of sobriety.
- Experience also suggests that men work with men and women work with women.
- The intent is to provide the newcomer with your help for a limited time. You need not have experience with treatment facilities. Your qualifications are experience as an alcoholic and recovery in AA.
- It may be helpful for you as a temporary contact to attend workshops on bridging the gap and attend meetings of your area's hospital and/ or treatment facilities committees.

- Remember, the goal of both AA and the treatment facility is the same - the recovery of the alcoholic.
- Be familiar with the paper "Information on Alcoholics Anonymous," particularly the section on what AA does and does not do.
- In all contacts or activities with treatment facilities, it is extremely important to be punctual and to look your best.

Try to do the following

- Make contact with the newcomer while he or she is still in treatment. To avoid any misunderstandings, explain clearly that this is a temporary arrangement.
- Review the many different meeting formats — cover the difference between open and closed AA meetings and accompany the newcomer to a variety of meetings. Give the newcomer an AA meeting schedule.
- Introduce the newcomer to AA Conference approved books (particularly the Big Book), pamphlets and the AA Grapevine.
- Explain group membership and the value of having a home group.
- Explain sponsorship to the newcomer, referring to the pamphlet "Questions and Answers on Sponsorship," and perhaps help the newcomer find a sponsor.

If you would like to help in this very important Twelfth Step work and have a least one year of continuous sobriety in the AA program, please attend the next District 17 monthly meeting or send an email indicating your interest to: district17@aaocalamarion.org

Book of the month Dr. Bob and the Good Oldtimers A biography, with recollections of early AA In the Midwest

Alcoholics Anonymous, by its very nature, could not have been founded by one person. Its essence is sharing. Therefore, Bill W. and Dr. Bob are always referred to within the Fellowship as co-founders.

So far, among the majority of AA members, the Ohio surgeon has been less well known than his partner. He died in 1950, when AA was only 15 years old. But his influence on the whole AA program is permanent and profound.

This book attempts to give a portrait of Dr. Bob as full-scale and balanced as possible—for the most part, in the words of those who knew him personally. The youngster who grew up in Vermont of the late 19th century became a hard-drinking college boy, then a medical student fighting the onset of his own alcoholism, a respected physician, a loving but increasingly unreliable family man, and at last a desperately ill drunk, without hope until he met a stockbroker from New York — Bill W., who urgently needed a fellow alcoholic to help him maintain his own sobriety.

Beginning with Dr. Bob's last drink and the start of the Fellowship, his story becomes involved — through interdependence—with those of other early members and of pioneer groups in the Midwest. This development was both exhilarating and tumultuous: Only the trial-and-error method taught AA the best approaches for newcomers; connections with the Oxford Group grew uneasy; dissension arose over the writing of the Big Book, finances, participation by members' wives, and minorities in AA. Through it all, Dr. Bob was a steadying central figure.

The end of the story returns to the intensely personal view. But even in his last years, Dr. Bob was drawn into hard-fought discussions and eventually decisions that would reach far into the future of A.A. Worldwide.

One members Voice A Paragraph for a Lifetime

although not verbatim, I bring the essence of that prayer into my morning routine as a reminder that although I am nothing like I used to be, there are still some of those defects I cling to or find not too bad.

My primary reason for the seventh step prayer today, however, is not because I am fearful of returning to the drink, although that is always a possibility if I refuse to work Step Seven. My primary reason today is the connection I get with my God and my fellow man. When I am free of self, when I ask God to remove those things that stand in the way of my being useful to Him, and I see my character defects for what they are, I become a better father, son, friend, co-worker, and so on.

Throughout my sobriety, there have been times that have been characterized by one outstanding shortcoming or another. These have brought me closer to my God and closer to understanding the true meaning of Step Seven.

I often fall for the shortsighted objective, which is mine, and miss the larger, truer objective, which is that of my Higher Power. The young, lustful second, third, and fourth years of sobriety drove me to my knees again when I realized that even though there was progress in my relationships with women I still could act selfishly to get what I wanted and sometimes hurt others in the process.

Recent events in my life have caused me to see that anger, or rather reacting to anger, is just as detrimental to my serenity and therefore my sobriety, justified or not. I ask God to help me find a better way and today enjoy the benefits of a closer relationship and understanding of God.

I have come to embrace the paragraph on page 76 in Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions, that says, "The chief activator of our defects has been self-centered fear — primarily fear that we would lose something we already possessed or fail to get something we demanded." The reason behind my sponsor's insistence on the removal of self and its resultant activation of these defects becomes clear. Without the removal of self-centeredness, I don't stand a chance of allowing God in to help with their removal.

I see too how the third-step prayer, in which I ask God to remove me from the bondage of self, leads into the seventh-step prayer of helping me live better by taking away those things that block me from God's light and ultimately leads to the eleventh-step prayer, which amounts to a way to live a life of service to God and others.

When I first started writing, I imagined that I would say a lot about humility, the underlying principle of Step Seven, but I think the 12 & 12 does a much better job of this. I will state that the definition of humility back in Step Five of the 12 & 12 really says what humility is all about for me: "A clear recognition of who and what we really are, followed by a sincere attempt to become what we could be." Steps Five and Ten give me the "recognition;" Step Seven is my "attempt."

The Big Book of Alcoholics Anonymous devotes only one small paragraph to Step Seven, but it says so much in its simplicity with one of the most powerful prayers for getting and keeping me in tune with my Higher Power. Although the paragraph ends with, "We have then completed Step Seven," as with all twelve, it is never really completed. Forever honing, seeking, and progressing, this is a small paragraph to live for a lifetime.

Unity. Recovery. Service. Why Intergroup 17 exists — and why we all should care.

Unity: Intergroup serves as a critical link among all groups in Ocala and Marion County.

Recovery: Intergroup 17's primary mission is to carry the message to help the alcoholic achieve sobriety.

Service: Intergroup 17 also exists to serve the needs of groups and members in achieving their purposes.

Very often the first place where still-suffering alcoholics in our area call or show up for the kind of help only Alcoholics Anonymous can provide is at Intergroup 17. There a network of Intergroup volunteers stand ready 24 hours-a-day, 365 days-a-year to respond to those in need.

During regular office hours (10 am to 5 pm weekdays and 10 am to 2 pm Saturdays), these volunteers staff the Intergroup office front desk, answering the telephones and responding in person to visitors. During all other hours, dedicated volunteers take calls routed to their personal phones from the "hotline," all in the true spirit of the fellowship—one alcoholic working with another.

An information clearinghouse

While responding to 12th Step calls is arguably the most critical role that Intergroup 17 plays, it does much more. Intergroup 17 also serves as a clearinghouse for AA-related and group information for the more than 75 groups in the District 17 area, which includes Ocala and Marion County.

Volunteers respond promptly to a wide range of telephone inquiries (over 150 calls per month) directing callers to appropriate resources or referring them to the appropriate District 17 committees.

Volunteers, the heartbeat

Intergroup functions with only one paid worker and therefore relies heavily on AA member volunteers to provide its services. Many have found that serving at Intergroup, answering calls from alcoholics and doing what else needs to be done, greatly enriches their sobriety and broadens their circle of friends.

One year of continuous sobriety is required for volunteers who work the desk and answer hot-line calls. If you're interested, please call the Intergroup Office Manager at 352-867-0660..

The after-hours committee

This is the system Intergroup 17 uses to answer calls from alcoholics in need of help when the office is closed. Intergroup maintains a current, confidential 12th Step call list of AA members willing to serve after regular office hours. Now over six years old, this committee enables your Intergroup to provide around the clock telephone coverage every day of the year.

Communications central

If you had to describe in one sentence what Intergroup 17 does, it's communication about recovery with all who have a sincere need for help or interest in information about alcoholism.

The Intergroup office provides free and for-sale in-stock literature and supplies, such as chips, medallions, pamphlets, books, greeting cards, and other recovery related materials. Intergroup also places special orders on behalf of groups and individuals for recovery related publications and resources not regularly stocked.

When and Where meeting schedule

One of the most useful publications is the Intergroup 17 When and Where, a comprehensive list of all AA group meetings in the area including times, locations, meeting type, and geographic area.

The Voice newsletter

Published primarily for the membership, The Voice is a free publication, available in print from the Intergroup office, online at the website, and by email. You can request a free email subscription by emailing your request to thevoice@aaocalamarion.org

The Website Committee

These volunteers develop and maintain the Intergroup 17 website (www.aaocalamarion.org). Linked directly from AA World Services global website, the Intergroup 17 website serves as a 24/7/365 source of information, guidance, and hope to alcoholics in need, members, families, visitors to the area, and the general public. Whether they go to the site seeking immediate help, information on local meetings, details about local events, or just a better understanding of alcoholism and the pathway to recovery, visitors to the website will easy access to information they can use immediately.

Intergroup Representatives

Intergroup is "governed" by the group conscience of the Intergroup Representatives elected by AA groups. At monthly meetings, issues affecting the groups and AA are considered, discussed, and voted on by the representatives. Groups that send a representative to Intergroup have a voice and a hand in the future.

Self supporting and supporting all

Intergroup is self-supporting through the contributions of the groups and individuals we serve. We accept no outside contributions and generate a minimal additional income from the sale of literature and supplies. Intergroup is absolutely reliant upon group contributions to continue to provide our services.

It is important to note that even if a group sends no representative or does not contribute to Intergroup, it is still served by the Intergroup office in every way possible.

Members and others from the area, as well as those visiting from out of town, are encouraged to drop in to experience the "heartbeat of AA in action."

Inside Intergroup

Annual contribution tally reflects tough economic times

May 31, 2011, marked the end of fiscal year for Intergroup 17. It's the time when we close our financial books for the previous twelve months and take an accounting of our fiscal health. We can report that 54 groups in District 17 made a financial contribution of some sort during the year. For each donation we are extremely grateful, especially given the tough financial times everyone faces. The office could not have served its purpose without your generosity.

For the fiscal year ending May 31, 2011, annual donations totaled $15,183.37. That is $4,133.76 less this year than last, a decline of more than 20 percent. That's a great big shortfall, as we depend on group contributions as our primary source of funding. As many groups focus on Tradition Seven during July, we encourage all to give special consideration to supporting Intergroup 17 to the best of your ability. Every donation counts.

Lower prices on AA literature

To help make basic AA literature more accessible to groups and individuals, the Steering Committee decided unanimously to lower prices for the Big Book, Twelve Steps and Twelve Traditions, and Daily Reflections, including all Spanish versions.

New recovery related materials, chips, medallions and more Intergroup 17 has stocked our shelves with many new recovery related items — cards, key chains with medallion holders, bumper stickers, unity symbol stickers, and protective book covers. For your group needs we not only stock chips, medallions, and all types of literature, we also have the Steps and Traditions window shades, table-top displays, sets of six slogans pack, AA meeting signs, Grapevine magazines, a guide for leading beginners meetings, The Group Handbook, recovery pamphlets, and much more. We also stock a variety of free AA pamphlets, including many in Spanish.

Open House at Intergroup 17 Saturday, August 6. All invited.

You're invited to an Open House at the Intergroup office on Saturday, August 6, during our "Happy Hours" 10 am to 2 pm. Come by for fun, fellowship, and to learn more about service opportunities, to browse through the history and archives of AA in Marion County, and to explore our new publications and recovery related materials. Refreshments will be served.
